REUTER-though thanks to the vigorous protests of this journal and the action taken in the Legislative Council by the Hon. T. H. WHITZHEAD, the quantity of the article has been greatly increased, even if the quality s ill leaves much to be desired-is not for publication, why does the Chamber of Commerce still continue to draw the colossal sum of Six Dollars per mensem from the proprietors of our two local contemporaries? There is an inconsistency in this business which ought to PLANT & Of the latest and most be put to rights without delay. Scarcely a message is received through Reuter's service but exception can be taken to the staleness of the contents and to the silly construction put upon it by the translators along the chain of communication from the Straits to Shanghal The local Agents cannot always be blamed for equivocal or erroneous translations, for Reuter's code is perhaps the most involved and intricate of any known. It is, however, an essential point that the translator be au fait with contemporary history and passing events both great and small the world over. The fault lies more with the scurviness of the service itself, than with the Agents. It was only yesterday that Reuter had the cool effrontery to wire to Hongkong that a German gunboat had left for Bangkok when in reality he must have gained his information from either here or Shanghai The Telegraph is not alone in ladling out join issue with us. adverse criticism to this lame-duck news agency—the Shanghai papers are crying havoc and threaten to let loose the dogs of war: the stolid Straits Times twits REUTER on his tardiness and the Pinang Gasette. which apparently does not subscribe to the service, calls aloud for an amended telegraphic news system.

If we are not mistaken the Hongkong

pays Reuter refitted with automatic Steam Machinery 83,600 a year for these cablegrams, of to be paid in October. Four and a half paper grant was sanctioned by the late Sir John Pope Hennessy, but it is open to question whether or not in this instance he acted with characteristic acuteness The balance of the sum total is made up | virtually to ensure the passing of the entire by private subscribers, who pay 86 per messure. month; though it is generally understood that the Chamber of Commerce has to make up any deficiency that may exist. The Telegraph for years cheerfully anted-up the regulation half-dozen pieces of silver, and it was not untiour holy evening contemporary had driven the office donkey-cart through what was intended to be a binding agreement, and our repeated protests went unheeded, that we felt bound, as a matter of principle, to sever the connection. And we don't pay anything now, haven't paid a cent for a long time past, and don't intend now or hereafter to support an out-of-date monopoly which impedes private enterprise and allows jackdaws to strut about in the glaring guise of the gorgeous bunyip. Seriously speaking, the telegraphic service from London to Hongkong, even with the recent additions, is most unsatisfactory, and is susceptible, without much extra exertion, of great improvement; but the REUTER monopoly must first be effectually quashed. We say monopoly, the Siamese having sunk hulks, and laid but it is one only in the sense that it is sanctified by "olo custom." If we Comete anchored off Bangkok city during the mistake not. REUTER used to receive considerable favors from the Eastern Extension Telegraph Company, such as having his messages "tapped!" in transit, thus saving the cost of an extra word in the address of each message, but it is fair to assume that this privilege has been done away with and that the field should now be open to legitimate private enterprise. And this is what we are getting at. If the Eastern Extension and Great Northern Telegraph Companies are alive to their own interests they will listen to proposals that may shortly be made to them with a view of establishing a Press rate for the Far East-a rate that would suit the altered character of the times and correspond with that granted to Australian newspapers. The East certainly does not contribute in subsidies equalling the colossal amounts paid by the Australian Colonies, but the income which these two Companies derive from their constituents in this part of the globe entitles them to some consideration. And the Companies, too, would reap a rich harvest from the numerous journals published in Hongkong, Shanghai and Japan, and the papers would be materially the gainers half-a-co umn of interesting telegrams daily, from one of the reputed The Reuter's telegrams received in Hong- London agencies, bringing the Far East local Press until twenty-four hours after | would prove especially beneficial to all their receipt, and they are marked "For | concerned, and the enterprise that produced"

> FRANCE AND SIAM. ANOTHER "INCIDENT."

The French Consul in Hongkong, M. Gueyraud, about eight o'clock last night received a telegram from Admiral Humann, which be courteously and promptly communicated to the press, as follows :— SAIGON, July 14th, 4 p.m. Information has been received by wire from Bangkok that vesterday afternoon, while the Inconstant and Comete were lying off the Menam river bar, they were suddenly attacked by six Stamese vessels aided by the Pakpam forts. The French gunboats repelled the attack essily, and at once entered the river, in spite of torpedoes about the bar; the Inconstant and night, and remain there for the present.

[This statement explains itself sufficiently well; without definitely forbidding them, have been preparing to prevent them. Captain Borv. of the Inconstant, and Captain d'Artige du , Thir net, of the Comete, are both men of p action, and probably decided to take adva page of the first good tide, and go up to Bangi A the usual way, as if everything was per friendly—for that is, indeed, the estensibly; the Sismese, however, not) understanding whether they were at the or at war, made some rash and probably unauthorised movement which the French construed into a "su'den attack," though there are not six Slamese war vessels in the world-probably they were revenue launches, or junky. Although the committee of the Club did not care to recommend a direct vote of the Club money, a few of the members have already come forward and guaranteed a substantial sum to form the nucleus of the required fund, exceeding the Committee's estimate of what the club might be asked to provide. This at any rate forms a basis on which to develop the scheme. A meeting of the Club is, we believe, to be held shortly, and the proposal will then for the first time assume definite form. It is now certain that the Club can, even without any outside help, get up an athletic festival on a fairly large scale-good enough; probably, to struct numbers both of competitors and of speciators from Shanghal and the autports; good enough to fill a three days' prigramme to over-crowding; good enough to justify the enlistment of all the athletic and gymnastic resources available and to provide satisfactory, prize lists; good enough to be amplified by the addition of a flower show, baby show, and exhibits of many other objects, with the further attractions of music and countless amusements, to be arranged in detail at a later stage. SPECIAL INFLUENCES OF ALCOHOL ON MORALS.

The nature of conduct depends, of course, tvery much upon the discriminating powers of the intellect; and if these powers are deteriorated by alcohol, one avenue to inebriate vice and crime is made manifest.

As a matter of fact, alcohol acts upon the ineral nature in several ways. Its paralying impressions are not of equal force in every part of the nervous organism. Sensibility is not reduced everywhere to a common level. There is disintegration or incoherence of powers In his work, "Alcoholic Inebriety," Dr. Joseph

A Highland regiment is coupled with the Parrish declares: " calmes are undenbiedly draught of whisky in just such quentity as possessor of a criminal mind-a criminal first. and a drinker afterwards. On the court records well-known jurist, Noah Davis, of New York, reserts : "There can be no doubt that the vast m juity of crimes, especially those of personal | violence, find their cause in drunkenness. In print of fact, many persons first subdue their conscience by preparing to commit crime through drink."

This is the testimony of a learned physician and a learned lawyer to the influence of alcohol on conscience. And they add: It not only deadens the rensibility of conscience, but it does so to such a degree that It makes possible crimes darker than any bern of a criminal mind unaided

When the influence of strong drink is so decisive in strent thening the determination in must be in familiary the interest in the commission of small ones. It is not to be supposed that this process of subduing conscience is applicable to esiminals only. Alcohol paralyzes the con-cience of any one, who partakes of it, let his movives in drinking be what they may. The necasional inebriate may drink alcoholic liquors without any clearly defined surpose, certainly without the slightest intent to commit an unlawfu! act. Yet the poison affects him as it does others ; it renders conscience torpid, insensible, and John E. Anbrey, Esq., Soiala, N.S.W., kindly furnishes the following testimony:-"In January, 1879. I was master of a provisional school in the western district, and I married a delicate young lady, and was shortly afterwards appointed teacher under the Board of Education. Our first child was born in to regain her usual strength. In May, 1881, she was suddenly taken very ill; the family doctor was sent for and was greatly puzzled; he, however, prescribed and the patient partly recovered. About twelve months later she was very much troubled especially when lying down, loss of appetite, and what food was taken afforded no nourishment. Another doctor was called in, who sounded and wanted building up; and the liver would sometimes swell and burst off button after button off her ulster while standing in a store. For the last two years the trouble has been complicated with a most distressing rushing noise in the head, so violent as to render it impossible to lie in bed at night, with violent attacks of windy colic, causing complete prostration, and exceriation of the threat. Eventually, after further suffering, I rend of Clements' Tonic and its wonderful effects, and sent for a bottle. stomach. I consider Clements' Tonic the most palatable and effective medicine I have ever used in either England, India, Africa, or Australia. "JOHN E. AUBREY."
